THE CROWNING OUTRAGE.

Governor Sadler has committed the crowning act of executive infamy in vetoing the bill calling for a constitutional convention, in opposition to the well known wishes of at least four-fifths of the voters of the State. The infamy of the deed is only paralleled by the weakness, not to say the idiocy, of the "reasons" given for its commission, which are as follows, as published in the Appeal:

"My objection to the bill are founded mainly on the history of the passage of the measure as shown by the legislative officers. If the said history is correct as enrolled on the bill, the procedure in the legislature is so irregular as to create in my mind a very serious doubt respecting the actual enactment of the bill in a constitutional manner. The financial condition of the State is such that procedure under the doubtful authority of the history of the bill, which reads as follows, 'March 8th, read third time and lost, ayes 15, nays 12, absent 3; March 8, returned to Senate; March 9, returned from Senate to Assembly on a recall; reconsidered, placed on third reading and final passage; read third time and passed by following vote, yeas 21, nays 5, absent 17,' cannot be considered as correct."

As to the "financial condition of the State," which in his opinion is a reason for not entailing such expense upon the people, Governor Sadler signed without hesitation a pauper bill making a charity donation of $1,800 a year to the Lieutenant-Governor, which in four years will amount to considerably more than the entire expense of calling and holding a constitutional convention. That, however, was only one of the several treasury robbing bills approved by his excellency during the session, notwithstanding the depressed "financial condition of the State."

In regard to the wretched pretext that the bill was not "constitutionally enacted," the Governor does not pretend that it failed to receive the constitutional two-thirds majority in both branches of the legislature, but bases another objection upon what may have been a clerical error and which may have been committed at the time of enrollment, or afterwards, for that matter, as such things are not unknown in the legislative history of the State. But, presuming that it was an innocent clerical error of the enrolling clerk or some other legislative official, there is not a supreme court in the United States, not even excepting Nevada's, that would declare invalid an act on account of a trifling clerical error or slight incongruity in its legislative history, when it could be clearly proven that it had received a constitutional majority in both houses. It's dollars to dimes that the Governor signed a dozen bills more faulty in their history than the one in question. Another thing: The bill was not only the most meritorious, but the most important to the people of the State than any that was passed during the session. Why did he not examine it and return it to the legislature with his veto before that body adjourned? The natural inference is, as it had passed both houses by more than a two-thirds majority, that it would have been re-passed over his veto. This inference is justifiable from the flimsy pretext he gives for such an arbitrary exercise of executive power.

For more than twenty years the people of Nevada have been endeavoring to revise the Constitution so that it would be adapted to the population and revenue of the State. The call has been passed by the necessary two-thirds vote by four legislatures, and has three times been submitted to the people and always receiving three times as many votes for than against it. Once it received the Constitutional majority, but the voice of the people was drowned by a technicality nearly as absurd as the one resorted to by the chief executive of the State. How long will the people of Nevada submit to such infamous treatment from the Southern Pacific Railroad company, which has constituted itself the three coordinate branches of our State government? That company has always composed the principal opposition to a constitutional convention, and every intelligent voter in the State knows that that power is the cause of the people being prevented from expressing themselves upon the question at the next general election. Things have come to such a pass that we sometimes think the liberty of the people of Nevada would be better preserved, if there was a little more of the element in our midst which prevailed in the Caesarian days of the Roman Empire.

ONLY PROTECTS THE ROBBER.

Russia, Japan, China, Australia and England are all buying rails and engines from us. Under that system of protection which the Democratic party vehemently asserted would close for eign trade to us, we are capturing the markets of the world, underselling all other nations.—Genoa Courier.

If this is all true, if we are capturing the markets of the world and underselling all other nations, what is the need of such a high protective tariff? Why cannot our people undersell the world at home, as well as abroad? Certainly our high protective tariff does not affect foreign prices of their domestic products in their own country, but only increases the prices of our domestic products in our own country. Our own citizens are obliged to pay more here, at home, for our own home made products, than foreigners do for our products, even after adding the foreign tariff and cost of transportation. What has our high protection to do with the matter of capturing the world's trade, anyhow, only to give our capitalists the power to rob our people, while they are willing to take a reasonable profit for their products from foreigners? Our high protection only protects the robber.

It is an amiable trait in human nature to speak as well as possible, and perhaps lie a little, in speaking or writing of a man, even if he is a public enemy, after he is dead. John Sherman will probably read more good of himself than he ever dreamed he was guilty of, and from the most unexpected sources. In such a case, where there is any possible doubt of the death of the man who is eulogized upon that supposition, it is a safe policy to conclude with the paragraph: "If he isn't dead the above don't go."

BREVITIES.

The Record says that some one can make money by starting a brick kiln near Gardnerville.

The Austin Reville says that A. J. Maestretti will remove to Reno to enter into a law copartnership with Judge Haydon.

Charles L. Taylor, superintendent of the Rose Valley Borax Company, arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning and will leave for the north on this morning's N.C.O.

The Truckee river has begun to rise and is quite muddy. The high water will give the river bed a much needed cleaning and stop some of the illegal fishing at present going on.

All of our Northern California exchanges are speculating as to where is to be the terminus of the N.C.O. road. The JOURNAL can furnish the information. It will be at the end of the road.

Powerful influences are at work to secure a light sentence for Captain Neall in the court-martial. His voluntary return to face the charges show that he is of the mould from which heroes are made.

There seems to be no further use for Dewey in the Philippines. James Creelman is over there, and can attend to everything, can manufacture battles and slaughter insurgents at will.—Sacramento Bee.

It is rumored that Zack Taylor and Mike Dignen, formerly of Carson and well known in Reno, shot a man over a game of cards in Idaho the other day. Dignen is reported as being in custody, while Taylor is still at large.

Colonel W. J. Sutherland, the well known Candelaria mining promoter, is sued for breach of promise by Mrs. Webber, a handsome Chicago widow. She claims that he has been toying with her affections and wants $20,000.

It is estimated that water that flows to waste from the Sacramento, Yuba, Feather, American, San Joaquin and other California rivers during the spring floods, if stored, would cover the floors of the valleys to a depth of ten feet.

The Virginia City papers are blowing about a certain big "pumping" plant on the Comstock. Our ranchmen say they never heard of such a plant, and are anxious to know if it belongs to the "pumpkin" plant family.—Hawthorne Bulletin.

We have been informed, indirectly however, that W. J. McDonald of Boca will take the position of superintendent of the business of the companies at Boca, left vacant by the death of his father. He is a bright, industrious and progressive young man.—Truckee Republican.

Governor Roosevelt of New York delivered a lecture on "Hypocrisy" a few weeks ago and on the following day went to Washington, where he shook hands with Secretary Alger and is understood to have said: "I'm awfully glad to see you." Still these facts may not have had any real bearing upon each other.

Hon. James Connors, ex-mayor of St. Ignace, Mich., arrived in Gardnerville the other day. He will visit the big antimony mines south of Wellington, accompanied by P. N. Packard. Mr. Connors has recently been in California, where he owns some mining property, and will shortly return to his eastern home.

Equal to the Occasion.

Michelot, the famous comedian, suffered a great deal from the spite of his colleagues, and found it necessary to be on the alert at every performance. On a certain occasion he had to scold a servant in one of Moliere's plays, when the "claque," which had been bribed by his rivals, began to hiss.

Michelot was by no means disconcerted. Giving the servant a couple of blows on the ear not included in the part, he extemporized as follows:

"You vile scamp of a varlet, there is nothing you think of! There you stand quietly listening to the vermin squeaking in the house and never trouble your self to get the rat poison!"

The effect of this rally was striking. The audience broke out in loud applause and no subsequent attempt was made to hiss the actor.

A Double Headed Bull.

On the occasion of a public reception at Napier, Australia, the school children of the town, after being duly complimented by his excellency from County Tyrone on the hearty manner in which they had rendered the national anthem, were solemnly assured that if they put their shoulders to the wheel they would be sure to reach the top of the tree! Upon which a compatriot turned to me and said, "Sure, it was an axle-tree he meant, bodad!"

Ambitious Young Singers.

People who have reached the heights in any profession are apt to be called upon frequently for advice and assistance, and perhaps great singers more than other people. It is astonishing how many people believe that they can sing. But it was a young woman who had sung who called upon Mme. Nordica the other day for assistance. The first thing to know was, of course, what the young singer had done. "Oh, I have sung all the chief soprano roles in grand opera," said the young woman, in answer to a question. That was doing well, and it did not seem as if there would be so much difficulty in assisting that young woman.

"Which of them do you sing in German?" asked Nordica.

"Oh, I don't sing anything in German," said the would be Metropolitan Opera House prima donna.

"Well, what do you sing in Italian?" continued Nordica.

"I don't sing at all in Italian."

"Well," said Mme. Nordica, somewhat nonplused, "you know that grand opera is not sung in English. What do you sing in French?"

"I don't know any of the languages, I don't sing in French at all."

"What were you thinking of doing?" asked the prima donna, somewhat at a loss as to how this young woman could be helped.

"Well," answered the young woman, "I rather thought I would go to England."

"To England!" exclaimed Mme. Nordica, aghast. "But, my dear, there is no grand opera in England. Grand opera is in America. Now, suppose you learn the role of Stephano in 'Romeo et Juliette' in French, and perhaps I could get you a hearing."

"Oh, dear, no!" said the young woman. "I shouldn't be willing to sing anything but the principal roles." So she departed, and now she has gone to England, where grand opera is not, to get grand opera roles suited to her talents.—New York Times.

A Haunted House.

"The haunted house in this case," said the old college man, "was occupied by a very estimable and intelligent gentleman. He did not believe in ghosts, but two nights had made him look old and careworn, and there were certainly loud, strange and startling noises in his attic. They would continue right up to the time that some one entered the haunted room, but the opening of the door was the signal for a most oppressive silence.

"Half a dozen of us college fellows asked permission to investigate, and it was gladly granted. We waited till we heard the noise, and I assure you that there was plenty of it. It continued until we had crept up stairs, but ceased when we entered the attic. We waited there without result till big Hicks of the football team, carried out a plan. We closed the slide to the dark lantern, slammed the door noisily, as though leaving, and then settled down to wait. Presently the noise began. We flashed the light in its direction, and there was a jug rolling back and forth rapidly, the handle striking the floor with a loud thud.

"Must be spirits in that jug," laughed big Hicks, but his laugh was a tremolo. 'We'll see,' and he let go with one of his famous kicks that shattered the uncanny vessel. Then every fellow let out a yell and jumped as though trying to knock a hole in the roof. A rat had crawled into the jug and had been frantically trying to get out."

Sam Hodgkinson Will.

"Sam Hodgkinson," says the Lewiston Journal, "was in his day and generation a much respected citizen of Hancock, and, like his son Dudley, better known as Uncle Dudley, was well known all over the eastern portion of the county. An amusing story is told by some of his old acquaintances to an eastern Maine paper of how he once made his will. It happened to be done at a time when the old man was in one of his happiest and most generous moods, and, realizing no doubt the uncertainty of human life, concluded that he would bequeath to his seven sons—Dudley, Zachariah, Moses, Sam, Shem, Gee and Elliot—his worldly goods and possessions.

"He was very anxious that the will should be legal, and was careful lest any of his children might be left unmentioned in some way. So the old man drew up the instrument, in part like this: 'Half to Dud, half to Zack and all the rest to Moses. Shem is blind, Sam is poor, Gee has moved to the Falls (Sullivan Falls) and Elliot is the baby.' As the will was never probated it answered the purpose just as well as any."

Ancient Glassmaking.

When the council of ten ruled Venice, they issued a decree regarding the art of glassmaking. It runs: "If a workman carry his art beyond the limits of his country to the detriment of the republic, he shall be desired to return. If he disobey, his nearest relatives shall be imprisoned. If, in spite of their imprisonment, he remain obstinate in his wish to live abroad, an emissary shall be told off to kill him."

A STRONG LECTURE.

Learned Dissertation on the Works of Walt Whitman.

Edward B. Payne gave the second lecture in his series of three last evening. A much larger audience than the one which attended the first lecture was there to hear the noted speaker interpret Walt Whitman's deep thought in regard to the coming condition of humanity. He demonstrated clearly how strong was this great American poet's conviction that the political turmoil, in which the United States governmental system is so deeply involved, could be purified by the combined mediation of bards through their exalted verse. Whitman held the opinion that it was by them alone the many integral parts of the United States could be bound together in one compact and harmonious unit. The value of poets, not sentimental versifiers and romancers, but true lyric bards, the characters of morality and higher principals of life, was presented as being real, not imaginary. Never has it been made more clear to us that thought, grace, eloquence and civilization are natural sequences of true poetry.

A Lesson.

A lesson, which may be studied with advantage, is offered in the appropriations made by the Congress of the United States during the session just closed. Never in the history of the Nation has Congress been so liberal towards the States of the Pacific Coast. Especially is this true of California. Hardly anything has been asked by that State that has not been granted. While Nevada, for years in the greatest possible need of assistance in the development of irrigation and the incident reclamation of a vast area of the most productive land on earth, has not been mentioned as a beneficiary among the grants to other States. California received nearly four millions for public improvements—Nevada not one nickel. The reason for this may be easily found in the fact that for a number of years Nevada has not been represented at all in the United States Senate and had only one representative in the lower house, while during all that time California has had four Senators and has been ably represented in the other branch of Congress. Nevada had about as well be out of the Union as out of line with National politics, and considered in the Senate as in all things secondary importance to the S. P. railroad.—Carson News.

The Post says: "Mr. Sharon and his associates have been holding daily conferences, and, in fact, they held a long one to-day, which, it is believed, is responsible for Mr. Sharon's announcement this morning that he probably will return to Virginia City to-morrow."

The General Assembly.

The University student body was addressed yesterday morning by Edward B. Payne, the noted lecturer now in Reno.

Mr. Payne spoke in glowing terms of "The Pride of Nevada," its growing reputation and admirable location. He then entered upon his address proper, the outline of which was taken from Professor Thurtell's famous discourse upon the fourth dimension.

Upon this scheme he showed the advance of thought, the gradual subjugation of matter by mind.

"We are at present in the third dimension of knowledge," says Mr. Payne. "It is possible that in some time in the distant future we may approach something akin to absolute knowledge, a mental era of the fourth dimension."

Mr. Lester Merrill, who is here on a short visit from the city, favored the Assembly with vocal music, and was encored several times.

A Reno Boy.

The JOURNAL is in receipt of a letter from Frank Pollard, a Reno-raised boy. He holds a responsible position in the employ of Julius & Wadsworth at Yreka, California. They are wholesale and retail butchers and manufacturers of distilled ice. Frank says he was nominated on the Republican ticket last fall for Auditor and Recorder, but was knocked out with all the rest of the Republicans; but is still in the ring and as happy as it is possible for a Nevada-raised boy to be who has cast his lot in another State.

Frank is married, and says he has met with good success thus far in raising a family. He extends regards to all old friends.

The Ravages of Grip.

So much misery and so many deaths have been caused by the Grip, that every one should know what a wonderful remedy for this malady is found in Dr. King's New Discovery. That distressing stubborn cough, that inflames your throat, robs you of sleep, weakens your system and paves the way for consumption is quickly stopped by this matchless cure. If you have chills and fever, pain in the back of the head, soreness in bone and muscles, sore throat and that cough that grips your throat like a vice, you need Dr. King's New Discovery to cure your Grip, and prevent Pneumonia or Consumption.

Price 50 cents and $1.00. Money back if not cured. A trial bottle free at S. J. Hodgkinson's.

Lack of Justice.

There is a great lack of justice or even common sense in many of the laws that are inflicted on the people of this country. For instance, a boy born in this country is not allowed to vote until he is twenty-one years old, but can be pressed into war to stop bullets, in order to increase the bonded debt, as soon as he is eighteen years old.

And again, the poor man can have a distress warrant issued against his humble belongings to pay an unjust tax, while the Supreme Court declares that the rich robber must be exempt, as an income tax is illegal and cannot be collected.—Utah State Journal.

A Handsome Specimen Book.

The JOURNAL has received from the Pacific States Type Foundry a hand book of specimens of type, ornaments, borders, and, in fact, almost everything required in a well regulated printing establishment. The designs of display are original and artistic and the arrangement unique. They have a splendid assortment of type, many of the faces being very handsome. Messrs Shattuck & Shattuck have our thanks for the book and we cordially recommend them to those desiring anything in the line of printer's material.

Still Not Satisfied.

Nye county has not one indigent; has only one prisoner, an Indian, in the county jail; has fewer poor people than any county in the State; has more resources than most counties; has a public school wherever there are five pupils of school age; has a very small non-interest-bearing debt, and yet it has a few dissatisfied citizens who would gladly see its organization destroyed and its territory divided among less prosperous counties than their own.—Belmont Courier.

Everybody "Smiled."

A well known local saloon proprietor who had been having "a night with the boys" entered his place of business about 7 o'clock this morning, and going to the cash drawer counted its contents and looking sagely at the clock remarked to his barkeeper: "It's about time to close up." The horse laugh that followed this remark brought the proprietor to a realizing sense of his ludicrous mistake and everybody present was invited to "take something."—Virginia Chronicle.

Long Telephone Line.

The Sunset Telephone Company will extend the long distance line, which now stops at Colfax, on up here and to Reno and Carson this spring, just as soon as it will be practicable to begin work. The line will possibly be extended around Lake Tahoe.—Truckee Republican.
